

HUSBAND TO JOE DESERTED WIFE WHO HIKED 800 MILES

FORGOTTEN AFTER 3 FLIGHTS

Starts From Florida Just as Wife Plans to Walk South With Children

If the mountain will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the mountain.—Old Proverb.

At the last minute the mountain decided to come.

Deserted for the third time by her husband, Mrs. Doris Wilcox arrived in Chelsea after walking with her two children from Henderson, N. C., more than 800 miles.

After appealing for help to the police, she announced her intention of walking to Ocala, Fla., where she learned her husband was. She was preparing for the journey today when she received a letter from her husband, Jerome Wilcox, from Palatka, Fla., dated September 4.

That letter will save the plucky woman a long, long hike. It read:

WRITES LETTER HERE.

"Dearest Girl:

"I am leaving here this morning for Boston and you. I do not know when I will arrive, as I have to travel the same way we traveled to Henderson, N. C. I lost my job Monday after I wrote you. You ask for me any time.

"Tell Luana that her daddy is coming home to her. I sure wish I could be with you and the babies tonight, dear girl, but I will be if nothing happens. I will write to you as I go along.

"I am going to try to get a boat in Jacksonville and if I can I won't take me long. Will close this time with love to all and a million kisses say you and the babies.

"Your husband,"

JEHOMER.

Prior to the receipt of this letter Mrs. Wilcox had announced her intention to walk to the Florida city, saying:

"I am going to make a man of him if it takes me all my life. Therefore, why, that's impossible. I'm one of those old-fashioned kind of people, maybe, but Civero is not in my line.

"The children should have a father and I'm going to see that they get him. I received a letter from him a few weeks ago. He asked for divorce and wanted to come back to me. I told him everything would be all right if he would come back.

"The young woman's husband is Jerome H. Wilcox. The couple were married in the Municipal Building, New York, five years ago.

Mrs. Wilcox is the daughter of Mrs. Dudley Ayres, wife of the film star. She lived for a time with that family at Long Island, New York, she says.

WORKED IN BOSTON

During the war Wilcox enlisted in the Navy. Jerome was placed in the Naval Prison at Portsmouth for violating some of the rules. Mrs. Wilcox told a reporter, "I stayed to keep body and soul together and to get enough food for the two children. Each week I visited him at Portsmouth.

"He was discharged from the prison and we lived together, and he worked as a conductor on the Boston Elevated railway. I thought that my troubles were over, but he left again, and after an absence of six months came back to me.

HIKED TO CHELSEA.

"We decided to hike it to North Carolina. In company with another couple we started out and arrived in Henderson. After living there until last January, my husband received a message that his father had died. He told me he was going back to help run the store at home. He went, but left there shortly afterwards.

"That was in January of this year. I hiked back to Chelsea and am now seeing with two aunts."

BOSTON LIQUOR PLAT BARED BY ARREST

With the arrest of Sigmund Rand of Central Park, N. Y., in New York, prohibition enforcement agents today declared a conspiracy to withdraw large quantities of bottled liquors from Quinby Market Cold Storage in this city had been blocked.

Hand was arrested in Park Row post office building by internal revenue agents on the charge of forcing a permit to withdraw intoxicating liquors from the Boston warehouses.

CHARGE PERMITS STOLEN.

The arrest followed the withdrawal of 240 cases of whiskey from the bonded warehouse in Boston, said to have been made on permits stolen from the prohibition director's office in New York.

It is one of the ramifications of the case against former prohibition director William Orr and others, who are under indictment and awaiting trial.

Hand was apprehended on a warrant from the southern district of New York, and a similar warrant was issued against him by Commissioner Hart of Providence on August 31.

MORE CHARGES PENDING.

There are several additional charges pending against Rand in the Federal Court at Providence. Neither of the cases has been concluded, as Rand has been fighting to have his record to him 250 cases of liquor seized two years ago.

He claimed that when prohibition went into effect he was given a permit from the government to do a wholesale business with retail drug stores in the handling of liquor for medicinal purposes.

Bribery Charge In R. I. Brewery Probe

Providence, Sept. 8.—Starting disclosures of bribery and corruption of officials are hinted as a result of investigations begun here by prohibition agents Thomas Brown and the announcement that Mrs. Alice Hand Lynn has brought a bill in equity to compel an accounting of profits by the Hand Brewing Company.

Thousands of barrels of real beer, it is alleged, have been manufactured and openly distributed throughout Rhode Island by the Hand company at enormous profits. Mrs. Lynn seeks to have James Lavelle, manager of the brewery, testify as to profits.

SEEK ALL FACTS.

It is claimed the real beer sold at $11 a barrel and was distributed at $35 a barrel. Federal officials paying little or no attention to the traffic. It is hinted in the bill that the difference between the $11 and $35 was used largely to buy protection of officials.

Rigid investigation of the company's transactions and those of the Consumers' Brewing Company of Cranston is under way by Agent Brown, new Federal director.

Close attention will be paid by him to proceedings now under way among the heirs of the Hand Brewery.

Action to Follow Springfield Arrest

Springfield, Sept. 8.—Federal prohibition agents are investigating an alleged Rhode Island rum ring as the result of the arrest here of Charles Butz of this city. Butz was taken while he was driving an auto truck load of twenty barrels of alleged real beer. He said he was driving it from Pawtucket to a local hotel.

Later, Federal officials said, he admitted that he had bought the beer from the Hand Brewing Company at Pawtucket. The management of the hotel mentioned by Butz denied any knowledge of the case.

FRISHER GOING TO POLE IN AIRSHIP

Belfast, Sept. 8.—Captain Charles Frisber, the explorer, announced today that he is planning an expedition to the North Pole with a non-rigid airship.

As a Harmonizer the Flapper Finds She's Gotta Voice Like an Umpire

MY

FIERCE, EH? BUT WAIT! I GET MY VOICE VULCANIZED!

For a little while they let me be the "and" between "Van" and "Schenk" but I soon threw the harmonizer away, away off. Van is the one standing up. His voice comes from his patient leather boots. Schenk plays the piano with one hand and sings in a top floor voice. Each without the other is not so good, but together they're the antelope's carring.

BY THE FLAPPER (CAROL FRANK)

Van is to Schenk what pork is to beans, what Sears is to Rodick, what Benson is to Hedges, and vice versa.

"They've been a team since Ben Franklin floated kites on the Boston Common. And they get along together in quite as close harmony as they sing.

"Don't you get tired of looking in 'at each other?' I asked them, yesterday.

Van smiled his famous all-to-the-merry grin and answered: "Oh, no. We don't mind being together so much because we—"

"—like each other," finished Schenk.

DOING IT 16 YEARS.

"Don't you ever fight?" I asked 'em.

"No," said Van. "At least not like some of the acts."

"The married ones," put in Schenk.

"How long have you been harmonizing?"

"For sixteen years," answered Van.

"And more," added Schenk.

"Don't forget the harmony we put into 'After the Ball was Over' in the old days on the B. R. T."

"What were you doing on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit?" I asked. "That's not a vaudeville circuit."

"We ran it," answered Van. "I was the motorman and—"

"I was the conductor," finished Schenk. "That's where we got our start. We used to pull gag lines on the passengers."

RAN OWN JOY LINE.

"Al" said, "Who was that lady?"

"An' Gus' said, "That was no lady, that was my wife."

"An' the passengers'd laugh so hard we'd carry 'em by their noses," said Van.

"We had a swell audience in those days," remembered Al.

"We had some regular customers who'd wait on the street corners on cold Winter mornings letting all the cars go by till ours came along. We sure started 'em to work with a laugh. And do you remember the day, Gus, when you hadda sing a yowling kid to sleep on the car?"

THEM HAPPY DAYS!

"Yeh," said Gus. "The kid was hoistering so hard I didn't know where I was piling the darn bus to. I hadda either still the kid up or run the whole outfit into the river."

"So he sang a lullaby to the bus and it quieted right down."

"Them," sighed Van "were the happy carefree days."

"Yup," repeated Schenk. "Those were indeed."

McADOO WILL RUN FOR PRESIDENT

New York, Sept. 8.—William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of Treasury, is a favored candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1924.

McAdoo is 1924. William G. McAdoo, of Denver, a former Colorado State Senator, and congressional statesman at the last three Democratic conventions, declared here.

"I saw McAdoo in Los Angeles less than a month ago," Mr. Lyons said, "and he told me very plainly that he would be in the race this time. He will enter the California Presidential primaries unopposed."

MRS. HARDING, ILL. CANCELS SOCIAL LIFE

Washington, Sept. 8. (By International News Service).—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President, probably will be confined to her room for some days as a result of illness, it was said at the White House today. It is emphasized, however, that her illness is not of a serious nature, although it will force her to suspend social activities for a period. Mrs. Harding's illness was ascribed to a severe "summer cold."

COLLEGE GIRLS START RIOT ON SHIP

New York, Sept. 8.—Officers and crew of the New York-Naples liner Philadelphia, the American steamship which was abandoned as a security to a host of Italian creditors in Naples, arrived here today on the Commodore with the tale of a voyage which ended disastrously in the Italian port.

Several of the officers and crew described a series of difficulties. Captain McLeod was alleged to have had with unruly members of the crew, which they declared insisted to attempt first to kill the captain and then to burn and finally to scuttle the ship.

Captain McLeod, however, made light of the story, declaring the crew behaved well and that the only difficulty he had was inability to get the ship out of Naples because of debts.

A lighter and more womanly touch was given the story by Leon Spencer, assistant purser. He said that the Philadelphia sailed from New York with a number of college girls among her first cabin passengers. She also included a few young men, many of whom, working their way across, many as stokers.

After the Philadelphia had been a week at sea, the college men decided that they were working too hard and began to haunt the decks, when they should have been on watch.

The college girls didn't appear to mind it in the least. The nights were gloriously moonlit. The captain and officers were getting threatening, and the rest of the crew, taking example from the stow-away stokers, seized upon the melodramatic possibilities of the situation. There were some broken heads, Spencer said, adding that the result of the midnight parties between the college stokers and the college girls tourists was a complete undermining of the ship's discipline. A few hours later, the row was ended by a body of marines who boarded the vessel.

WOMAN IS HELD IN FATAL RUM PARTY

Brooklyn, September 8.—Following a wild drinking party, six persons are dead, and a woman is held in custody on a charge of homicide.

A LITTLE UNBLESSED.

"I can't believe that he could have killed himself on my account," Miss Fuller said when a reporter called on her. "I don't think he loved me that much."

"We'd known each other for several years, and were keeping company for about a year. We had a little quarrel about a girl friend of mine that he wanted me to shake. I never dreamed that he took it so seriously. After our quarrel I became ill, and when I got better I inquired around for him, but could not locate him."

"I thought he was angry with me and keeping away."

"I hope he didn't really commit suicide. Perhaps he did this to wear me out in marrying him. If he did—"

She left the sentence unfinished. But if he did, it looks bad for Mr. McAdoo as far as Miss Fuller is concerned.

HARVARD FOOTBALL: STAR TAKES BRIDE

Fitchburg, Sept. 8.—Jack Crocker, Harvard football star, was married at Milton to Miss Mary Brewster, daughter of a Fitchburg merchant.

CANDIDATE'S WIFE GOES ON STUMP

Mrs. Michael A. O'Leary, wife of the Democratic candidate for nomination as Lieutenant-Governor, took up her husband's battle and started a audience in Lowell and Lawrence by her stump speeches in his behalf.

Mrs. O'Leary refused charges that her husband's campaign was a political move, made by one of his opponents. Indignantly she denied the accusation and said that the shoe was on the other foot. Her husband's opponent was the usual of houses, carrying on a campaign of mudslinging for his support.

Mrs. O'Leary predicted the nomination of her husband by a big plurality and his election to the office of Lieutenant-Governor in November.

Wilson, Suplt. of Police Michael J. Crowley, Captain of State Police Patrick, Chief West of the Metropolitan force and fifty other police officials of the city.

Dousing the vest, which is made of a metallized fabric resembling steel, Schwartz stood against a wall at Police Headquarters while Philip Rossmel, an official of the company which has paid and tested the vest, fired revolver after revolver at him. The most powerful revolvers owned by the police failed to send a bullet through the vest.

TRIES SUICIDE 3 TIMES; KILLS 2 CHILDREN

New York, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Martha Lavender's third attempt at suicide, carried out in her home on Coney Island today, caused the death of her infant son William, three months old, and of her daughter Lillian, aged seven.

The woman and her two children were found unconscious from gas fumes in their locked apartment, the door to which was broken down by a man who detected the odor of gas. The infant was dead. The mother and daughter were taken to the Harbor Hospital, where the daughter died.

New Haven Cars on Time! Yes; It's Wonderful!

New Haven train service today showed almost miraculous improvement, following the Boston American's daily survey. For two weeks or more trains have been from half an hour to three hours late. Today trains from local points, which have been late from half an hour to an hour, came in only a few minutes late, and trains from further points, which have been as many as three hours late, were only about fifteen minutes late.

The shore line train on the N. H. & H. R., used by suburbanites from Providence to Boston, which was nearly an hour late yesterday, got in on time today, for the second time in two weeks. Although several of the trains were a little late, the bulletin board in the South Station today looked like this:

'BRITAIN MUST GO,' SAYS MRS. MACSWINEY

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Sept. 8.—A renascence in Ireland—a restoration of ancient freedom, of the Gaelic language, art and literature, of industry and resources—was foreseen today "in the darkest hour of Irish history," by Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, whose death as a hunger strike placed him in the hall of famous martyrs.

Ireland will never accept the Free State's treaty, she would not accept a dominion government like that of Canada, bloodshed and war will go unrelentingly on until England grants unrestricted independence—a republic and the republic is coming as inevitably as the judgment day—these are the beliefs of Mrs. MacSwiney, as outlined to International News Service.

TAKES BOLAND'S PLACE.
Mrs. MacSwiney has come to the United States to obtain funds for relief of the Irish detained destitute by the reign of terror and destruction of the civil war. Too, she wants to put the cause of Ireland before the American people.

Harry Boland, former secretary to Eamon de Valera, came to have brought Ireland's appeal to America. But he was shot when it became known that he was coming to the United States, according to Mrs. MacSwiney. She will make a campaign to enlist sympathy for the Irish Republican cause.

Mrs. MacSwiney is still in deep mourning, although she is a young woman. She has a quaint way of saying things, with a decided Celtic inflection.

"Oh, no," she replied to a question, "there aren't any Irish women fighting with the irregulars. I've been asked that before, but it is not true."

FRANSES IRISH WOMEN.
"The women are doing the Red Cross work. They are cooking and sewing for the soldiers and nursing them in the hospitals like we did in France. These loyalty and courage could avail privations and hardships have proved an inspiration to the Irish patriots to fight to the bitter end to sweep the yoke of England's oppression from our shores."

There is only one solution to Ireland's troubles, as Mrs. MacSwiney sees the situation: only one road to peace. That is—England must get out.

Ten Years at Filene's

World War days—filling the gaps—doing our bit

NO ONE wants to hear about the World War. But no history of the last ten years can overlook it—certainly no history of a retail business.

To us the War was a ringing challenge.

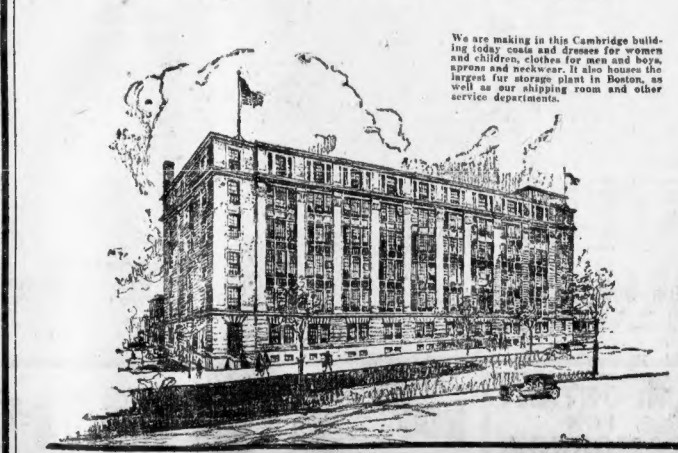

AS an organization we pledged ourselves more emphatically than ever to our purpose of serving the public. By mighty fighting and sleepless vigilance we succeeded in

1. Securing goods of Filene standard and having what our public wanted—
2. Keeping down cost of both merchandise and service.

AS individuals we turned to the War Work nearest at hand and best fitted to our strength. Our Honor Roll tells an eloquent tale. Two hundred and sixty Filene young men and women put on the uniform and three wear it still as a shroud; while those who stayed behind did their humble best to back up those who went.

'During the war, for the first time we departed from our long-time policy of buying from hand-to-mouth, and stored up stocks against the day when none might be had. Partly as a result of this new policy, but largely because our rapid growth demanded more room, came the new six-story Filene building on the Charles River Parkway, in Cambridge, now humming with the buzz of shipping room, factories, a great fur storage plant, and other Filene activities.

Read Chapter 5 tomorrow for further news.

We are making in this Cambridge building today coats and dresses for women and children, clothes for men and boys, aprons and neckwear. It also houses the largest fur storage plant in Boston, as well as our shipping room and other service departments.

TAKE 4, SEEK 33 IN THE HERRIN INDICTMENTS

Charles, Ill., Sept. 8.—Fate turned tables today, when the forces of law and order made their way through the dusty back roads and hills of Little Egypt on the greatest manhunt the coal region has ever known. The law was out in a might to take its toll for the Herring massacre, on June 21 and 22, when fifteen men were slaughtered on the roadside.

Thirty-three of the thirty-seven names named in the indictments for murder were the targets of the manhunt. The four arrested last night were indicted in the jail with a demonstration of any kind. They are Philip Fontanella, a coal miner; James Brown, constable; Charles Rogers and Leva Minn, both Herring.

There was no escape for the accused men, for the surveillance established by the United States Department of Justice had thrown an impenetrable but unbreakable net around the district. The deputies went about their work with a calm businesslike attitude that spelled disaster for those sought.

ATTACKS MEN BEHIND MINE PLANS

The proposed plan for reorganization of the New India Quick Silver Company was attacked today by Colonel Perry A. Guhrle and Attorney G. W. Parker in arguments before Federal Judge Anderson who has been hearing the case for the past few days. Those who drew up the plan and the compensation suggested for their efforts were also attacked by both attorneys.

Attorney Parker was strongly opposed to the proposed compensation which he explained to the court would consist of money and 3,000 shares of stock in the proposed new company.

He stated that the only persons who should receive compensation, in his opinion, were Executive James D. Colt, Attorney William D. Turner, counsel for the reorganization, and Thomas, an attorney of California. Attorney Parker's proposition would exclude from compensation Albert J. Messer of Brookline and Philip L. Reed, who served for some time as reorganization managers under appointment by a committee; their attorneys Dudley H. Dorr of Boston and Harry P. Baker, president of the company. Colonel Guhrle in his argument contended with Attorney Parker on this proposal.

Colonel Guhrle criticized the plan as contradictory in that it presented to stockholders a pessimistic outlook on one hand and asked them to produce capital within one month or be wiped out on the other hand. In general Colonel Guhrle opposed the reorganization plan as it stands at present and suggested that new arrangements be made.

CHARGES STATE-WIDE PLOT AGAINST ROADS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 8.—Federal operators today were investigating what United States Marshal McDonald declared a state-wide plot among certain striking railway shopmen to destroy railroad bridges and hamper operation of trains.

Within less than a month five bridges have burned in Oklahoma under mysterious circumstances. Other instances of tampering with railroad equipment, endangering the lives of train crews and passengers, have been reported.

Four men were held here today by Federal officers in connection with the burning of a Rock Island railroad bridge near El Reno, Okla., on the night of August 17.

She has consented, however, to carry out payment of huge annual fees bequeathed by her husband. Lord Northcliffe left two wills, which promised for a time to bring about sensational litigation.

DRIVEN MAD BY 'GHOSTS' ON PRISON SHIP

Becoming hysterical during a storm off Cape Cod, when comrades "killed" him into believing that the ghosts of the tortured and slain were rampant aboard the Australian convict ship. Success, Gilbert Grover was in a state of collapse when that ancient vessel reached here and docked at Warren Ridge.

Grover, employed as a lecturer aboard the ship during her two years in New York, had talked so much about the famous convicts who had been punished and who had perished aboard her during her darker days, that when the north-east wind began to blow down the bay he thought he saw apoplexy of the departed.

Grover made his first trip on a boat larger than a ferry when the Surcouf left New York for this port. The other men on the boat, all hardened seamen, decided to "kid" him by way of initiation. When, however, Grover's condition became so alarming that officers threatened to put him in front of his comrades assisted in calming him.

LUMBER JACK STRIKERS SEIZE STEAMSHIP

St. John, N. F., Sept. 8.—A story of how 150 strike lumber jacks defied four constables, boarded a steamship and forced the skipper to take them out of his regular course to a point where they will be able to catch a train back to civilization, was related today.

The strikers were employees of the Aerial Survey Company at Hawkes Bay. The steamship was boarded by strikers when it touched the islands. Four constables at Hawkes Bay tried to back him up, but the vessel of strikers had already had their way, according to reports reaching here today.

The Department of Justice is investigating. The Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company has lost a large number of employees through strikes in the past two weeks. It was said.

RUSSIAN CROPS PUT AN END TO FAMINE

Moscow, Sept. 8 (By the Associated Press).—The American Red Cross Commission headed by Major Allen Wardwell has arrived in Moscow to find millions of empty stomachs crying for continuance of the American relief efforts, which have just been cut off. But at the same time reports indicate that the harvest will be sufficient to supply most Russians with food.

Colonel William M. Haskell, chief of the American Relief Administration's organization in Russia, said work of feeding was being rapidly reduced to care only for the most needy, particularly refugee children. The Russian government has also ordered a reduction in the famine relief. Officials say the problem of feeding the hungry is more where the harvest is bad than now because a lack of transportation.

Colonel Haskell declares the program of medical relief is to be much extended, as the typhus epidemic again becomes threatening. Russia also has broken out, particularly in the Moscow district. The relief administration is rushing a special shipment of quinine there.

WOMEN ORGANIZE OWN BLOC IN CONGRESS

SEVERAL LIKE TO RUN

Three Nominated for the Senate and Eight for the National House

By International News Service.
Washington, Sept. 8.—Women's drive into politics this year has raised a considerable splash.

Such marked success has attended the primary race made by women, that "Alice Alice" Robertson is likely to have sufficient reinforcement to organize a "female bloc" in Congress this Winter. Miss Alice Paul, vice president of the National Woman's Party, said today.

Of twenty-four women who have "come too late" in the primary to date twelve have "gotten to first," so to speak, 10 per cent have been nominated, including one candidate for Governor, three candidates for U. S. Senator and eight for the House of Representatives.

Of the successful twelve, three stand as excellent chance of election—Miss Robertson, Mrs. Winifred Mendenhall, in Illinois; and Mrs. Lucille St. Clair Moss, in Missouri. All three are running against Le Follette in Wisconsin, also on the Democratic ticket; Mrs. St. Clair Moss on the Democratic.

These chances of the other candidates, including Mrs. Peter Olson, running on the Democratic ticket for Senator in Minnesota, and Mrs. Jean Hooper, running against Le Follette in Wisconsin, also on the Democratic ticket, are considered slim.

"It is an admirable showing, particularly in view of the fact that women are still new in politics," said Alice Paul. "This is the first Congressional campaign in which women have really had a chance to show what they could do. Women suffrage was not a fact until the middle of the 1920 campaign."

"It is discouraging that the idea of women in politics is so novel that newspaper stories are written about it," she said. "It is an indication of the inferior status of women that we are still in bondage."

"If women were not a subject we there would be just as many women running for office as men," she continued.

"But she's man's inferior and will continue so until she asserts her mind and gains economic equality. Equal political and legal rights will follow automatically."

SAY STRIKERS NOT GETTING FAIR SHOW
Lawrence, Sept. 8.—Charges that returned strikers of the Patchogue-Plymouth Mill at Lawrence, Mass., have been discriminated against and that new workers have been hired in preference to the old hands will be threshed out at a conference today between C. E. McLean, superintendent of the mill, and a committee appointed by the workers. Fred M. Knight, agent of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, who is in Lawrence will attend the conference.

BOSTON MAN BEATEN, ROBBED IN GERMANY
Berlin, Sept. 8.—A victim of a wave of crime which is sweeping the city, R. A. Burr, a Boston newsman, was beaten into unconsciousness and robbed of a small amount of money, his watch and passport. Burr had only 16,000 marks in his pocketbook. He was of New York lost 2,000,000 marks' worth of jewelry.

Alice Harding a Demure Bride at North Shore Nuptials, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

A VERY demure bride was Miss Alice Harding—she is Mrs. Robert Pell now—in her old-fashioned wedding gown of white satin, with its tight-fitting bodice, its long, full skirt, waisted with clusters of white flowers, and the winsome little lace cap which turned into a gorgeous veil of duchesse lace, the latter falling in rich folds over the square court train of satin.

And the bride herself was as demure as her gown. As she walked down the aisle of St. John's Church at Beverly Farms yesterday noon she clung very firmly to the arm of her groom, Hildy, W. P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

She smiled happily, if a bit shyly, however, when she came up the aisle upon the arm of the bridegroom, after the Rev. Nelson Fox Carter of St. John's had pronounced them man and wife.

Both of the young people are just twenty-one years old.

Following the ceremony, there was a reception at the Dexter cottage in Fridesa Cresting, which the bride's mother-in-law and the groom's mother, Mrs. J. (Elizabeth) Harding, have taken for the Summer. Mr. and Mrs. Pell will spend their honeymoon abroad.

NOTED with interest that the dresses worn by the bridesmaids were at odds with the bride's was old-fashioned. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Harding, a sister of the bride, and the five bridesmaids wore gowns of the new, narrow, draped skirts and open, flowing sleeves expressing the very last word of Dame Fashion.

They all wore wide-brimmed hats of Alice blue velvet, and carried gorgeous bouquets of orchids and Mimosas.

The group of girls who served as attendants were, besides Miss Margaret Harding, Miss Evelyn Wadsworth of Montclair, N. J., Miss Olivia Johnson of Stockbridge, Miss Beatrice Pinyan and Miss Alice Mellon, both of Washington.

SPEAKING of the Pell-Harding nuptials, a goodly contingent of the guests attending the wedding hailed from New York or Washington. The groom's guests, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Pell, and his grandparents, the former Adelaids Chatfield-Taylor, who came very much into the limelight last Winter as the writer of "Why Not?"

Mrs. Harry Pratt McKean (Beale Lee) was there, groomed as usual in white, as was Mrs. Russell Burrage, who came with her, Freddie Prince, Jr., served in the corps of ushers, busy greeting friends on all sides. His wife, of course, was there, looking very stunning in a gown of gray and a large, droopy hat. She is a blonde, tall and slender, quite a bit taller than her little sister, the bride.

The decorations in the church were very gay. It seemed as though tons of gladioli must have been used for the occasion, and there were huge vases containing with those brightly-colored flowers placed at regular intervals along the walls.

DEBUTANTE last Winter and a bride this Summer is Mrs. John Crocker, who, as Miss Mary Halliwell, made her debut with the boys of the 1921-22 season. Her marriage to the young Harvard '22 man was solemnized yesterday afternoon in the town close by to the Readville home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Penrose Halliwell.

Miss Hannah Halliwell served as her bridesmaid, leading a group of bridesmaids including the Misses Ellen R. Halliwell, another sister, Leonora Trafford, Helen McIlwain, Eleanor Hart and Faith Ward.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Crocker, whose estate in Fitchburg is known as "The Knoll."

THE Lenox colony rejected to hear that Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson and their two daughters, the Misses Theresa and Lee Higginson, have returned from London and Paris and are now at the Lenox Club. The George Higginsons, who are cousins of the Boston Higginsons, and are frequent visitors home, have leased their Lenox home for the season.

HAD TO OBSERVE BIRTHDAY OF SAMUEL ADAMS

Mayor Currier today issued a proclamation relative to the celebration of the bicentenary of the birth of Samuel Adams, whom recent historians, including Senator Lodge, credit with being the man who did most in the Colonial days of this country to bring about a complete severance of the colonies from the British empire.

The Mayor's proclamation follows in part:

"September 21 will mark the 111th anniversary of the birth of Samuel Adams, a patriot, whose devotion to human liberty, representative form of government, and the principles of democracy, made him the outstanding figure of the Bay State Colony when Massachusetts began the struggle for American independence, and during the bitter years of the Revolution and the days that tried men's souls."

"Samuel Adams lived and wrought greatly and dying he passed into the glorious confraternity of American immortals, writing his name and fame indelibly into the history of his country and his times. His work has endured and as the years go by and strange doctrines arise, his American ears it will be to recall his teachings and recount his activities that free American government may endure."

"Now, therefore, as Mayor of Boston I direct that the flag of the Republic be flown over every public building of the city on September 22, and I ask the citizens of Boston to recall the splendid courage and patriotism of Samuel Adams and hang out their flags in honor of the man and the day."

"Here in the city of his greatest achievement, we must remember the man and his services to Liberty and Humanity, for his accomplishments are among our most treasured heritages."

One of them is piloted by the Princess of Lowenstein-Norheim. Although she is fifty-eight years old, the Princess insisted upon making the flight with the spirit of her machine.

Colonial Secretary Winston Spencer Churchill and the Duke of Sutherland entered machines.

REPLACE PRAYER FOR PRESIDENT

Episcopallians of Boston welcomed the news today from the general convention assembled in Portland, Ore., that a new prayer will be inserted in the prayer book for the President of the United States which will be peculiarly American.

The present prayer for the President of the United States is a recitation of the prayer in the Episcopal prayer book, which is used by the King of England and the royal family. The prayer as it appears in the present book is:

"O Lord, our heavenly Father, the high and mighty ruler of the universe, who dost from thy throne behold all the dwellers upon earth: most heartily, we beseech thee, with thy favor to behold and bless thy servant, the President of the United States, and all others in authority; and so replenish them with the grace of thy Holy Spirit, that they may always incline to thy will and walk in thy way. Endure them plentifully with heavenly gifts; grant them in health and prosperity long to live; and finally, after thy life, to attain everlasting peace and felicity through Jesus Christ our Lord—Amen."

This prayer will now be omitted and one not published after the prayer for the King of England, having a peculiar American flavor, will be substituted.

GIRL ARTISTS' DIARY BARES STRUGGLE

REVOLTED AT LIFE SHE LED

Luxury and Gay Parties
Unendurable When She Could Not Support Self

"To drift with every passion
until my soul
Is strangled late on play."
—Wilde.

New York, Sept. 8.—An intimate story of her experiences in New York, experiences that led to an unsuccessful attempt at suicide last Tuesday, is told in the remarkable diary of Donnie Harrison.

Talented as a dancer, an actress, a painter, the nineteen-year-old girl from Detroit left comparatively brief letters that told of her struggles to support herself in the great city to which she had come at her father's bidding.

In her diary she tells of yielding to the drug habit and, in intimate entries day by day, paints the picture of her life. Despite its setting, luxurious apartments, champagne, gay parties, the "small town" girl found life unendurable and sought to end her aimless drifting.

ADORED BY FAMILY.

All the while, back in Detroit, occasionally helped by the "girl who disappeared," lived her father, C. M. Harrison, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Harrison, and two sons, Fred, twenty-one, and John, sixteen.

But, she explains in her diary, she was not alone. Another man, of substance and position in the business world, had offered to make her his wife shortly before her tragic effort to kill herself.

On the forehead of the diary is a color sketch showing a beautiful blonde-haired little man, headed "A drawing of myself by myself." The girl gives her address as the "Dead Diary Boy," adding humorously: "Poor diary!"

The diary begins on January 1, 1921, and ends on a few lines of the "New York" production in which she played, jumps to January 1, 1922. It follows her life.

HARRY DISCOURAGED HER.

January 8, 1922.—Tuesday. Slept all day as usual. Gosh! I must have been so tired. I went to bed earlier and then got up early. Had dinner with — and saw "Houdini" at the Palace. Went to the movies and later met Phil and went to the "Crypy."

Wednesday.—I think I'd brace up if I felt so much of —. Cause I get into her slowly every day of sleeping all day and no ambition. But I don't sleep. I haven't been back out or anything. I just want to be alone in my room.

Thursday.—I feel terribly in spirit and so. I wish could get the stuff and go away for a rest and get some where in life. But it seems this thing is making me. If only I could get some money I'd feel more like it. That broke I'd feel disgusted with life.

"HORROR" IN DESPAIR.

Saturday.—Went some tonight. They thought I wasn't ever coming back to the room. I was out with — tonight. To Baltimore and a Hungarian place. I hope I keep up. Don't! Wake up something has to be done. You are broke. Don't sleep—get up!

Sunday.—Stayed in all day. At my own room last night and today. They went over to— and waited for— to call, but he didn't— the fool. I haven't met her even. I am in a bad fix. I sort of think if it wasn't for the "dope" I'd be dead before this.

Monday.—Didn't show up at my room today either. I won't show up till I get my rent money. That's my last "bit" tonight. Hope I can get more tomorrow.

Saturday.—Went some tonight. They thought I wasn't ever coming back to the room. I was out with — tonight. To Baltimore and a Hungarian place. I hope I keep up. Don't! Wake up something has to be done. You are broke. Don't sleep—get up!

Sunday.—Stayed in all day. At my own room last night and today. They went over to— and waited for— to call, but he didn't— the fool. I haven't met her even. I am in a bad fix. I sort of think if it wasn't for the "dope" I'd be dead before this.

M. Smith of Boston. She was taken to the Woodmont Hospital, but she died a few hours later from internal injuries. The accident occurred near the "New City School."

As a matter of fact, the girl was growing sick of a city that transforms unprotected feminine souls into "strangled lute on which all winds can play."

The beautiful little occupant of the flat on Madison avenue had an unusual friend—Arthur Rosenbaum—a business man who sided her in every possible way.

REFUSED TO WED.

But, she explains in her diary, she was not alone. Another man, of substance and position in the business world, had offered to make her his wife shortly before her tragic effort to kill herself.

On the forehead of the diary is a color sketch showing a beautiful blonde-haired little man, headed "A drawing of myself by myself." The girl gives her address as the "Dead Diary Boy," adding humorously: "Poor diary!"

The diary begins on January 1, 1921, and ends on a few lines of the "New York" production in which she played, jumps to January 1, 1922. It follows her life.

HARRY DISCOURAGED HER.

January 8, 1922.—Tuesday. Slept all day as usual. Gosh! I must have been so tired. I went to bed earlier and then got up early. Had dinner with — and saw "Houdini" at the Palace. Went to the movies and later met Phil and went to the "Crypy."

Wednesday.—I think I'd brace up if I felt so much of —. Cause I get into her slowly every day of sleeping all day and no ambition. But I don't sleep. I haven't been back out or anything. I just want to be alone in my room.

BEAUTIES FACE PAGEANT JUDGES FOR THE CROWNING AWARD

HOOPER GIRL LEAD

"Miss Boston" Among the Final Ten Reviewed in Awarding of Prizes

Atlantic City, Sept. 8.—Washington, Indiana, Providence, Pa., Cleveland, Detroit and Columbus have won honors in the International Beauty Contest here, with the beautiful Hooper girl leading. Miss Hooper was the first two events of the contest—the rolling chair parade and the contest for the best looking girl in evening dress.

ROLLING CHAIR HONORS.
In the rolling chair contest, Miss Leah Knapp, representing Detroit, was awarded second laurels, and Mrs. Leah Charles, Cleveland, was third recognition.
In the evening wear contest the second prize went to Miss Madison of Detroit and the third to Mary Katherine Campbell of Columbus. The honor went to Miss Margaret Gorman, the seventeen-year-old girl of Washington who was chosen Queen of Beauty last year, was purely unofficial. When asked who was the most beautiful girl among the fifty-eight from various parts of the country assembled here, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, selected Miss Gorman.

The judges will make the official selection of the Queen of the "Miss Boston" beauty.

Miss Margaret Trowbridge, seventeen-year-old girl chosen to represent Boston, has a busy day ahead of her. In the afternoon she will participate in the grand bathing review, to be followed by the open championship swimming events. The prize awarded to the winners in the evening in conjunction with a splendid entertainment.
Following this will come the selection and crowning of America's most beautiful bathing girl, and a brilliant night carnival on the boardwalk.

In the meantime, the beauty judging goes on merrily.
The beauty judges are hunting for the best. The matter might never have come up if it hadn't been who perched that certain one or two of the beauties in the city show a row of stone teeth. Perhaps it's true that the beauties with flowers and corns. Cannon roared and even the breakers of the sea seemed to enter into the spirit of jaywalking and pounded the beach just a little more every.

COLORT. PARADE.
Maiden ladies in yellow and white, extra, ladies of the Columbia days in lace and brocade, ladies of antique Greece and Rome, piquant jazz ladies in tight and fun looked down the boardwalk to the fitting means of extravagant melodies.

At night there was a mock naval battle with bombs and fireworks of every conception. The sinking of several barges offered added thrills for the crowds.
Although Miss Trowbridge of Boston didn't figure in the final honors of the two contests, she was a strong runner-up in the elimination and was among the ten beauties from which the three winners were picked after two hours of deliberation by the judges.

The Boston beauty looked charming as she faced the audience of over 4,000 people, who applauded as she was called to the stage by the announcer in the elimination process. She was most attractive in a pale cream lace over cream georgette gown.

NEWS AND GOSSIP

"BELLA DONNA." Robert Hicken's famous story, has been chosen as the first picture Pola Negri will make in this country.

The famous Polish screen star is now at sea on the majestic, arctic 2,000 foot vessel, and will spend enough time there to start the sight. She will then start for California and will begin production work. It is expected, about September 22.
Like the equally famous "Garden of Allah," by Mr. Hicken, the story of "Bella Donna" is located in Egypt. George Fitzmaurice, who recently completed the production of "To Have and Have Not," and who is "Toby" for Paramount, will direct Miss Negri.

ROBERTS NOW A PIRATE
FROM BRINGS OF NEW ENGLAND
The story of a pirate and his pirate's boots is the latest production of Theatricals. Robert Roberts, the Paramount favorite, after finishing work in "The Old Homestead," he began playing the role of "Captain Morgan Pring," a semi-piratical leader in the South Seas, in Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow."

ONLY 12 TREBALS IN FILMS.
ONLY twelve of Mrs. Jeanne Trowbridge's thirteen children are now working in motion pictures. Herve, twenty years old, has decided to be a priest and will attend school at Portland, Oregon. Several of the Trebals children have made good in the silent drama. Jeannette was one of the two orphan children in "A Fool Relation," while Yves was in both "Come On Over" and "The Wall Flower." Edouard has a prominent part in "Oliver Twist" with Jackie Coogan.

"SHERLOCK HOLMES."
LOUIS WOLHEIM, who appears briefly in "Sherlock Holmes," John Barrymore's latest screen production, which Goldwyn is releasing, is a Cornell University man who was started on his stage career by the star's brother, Lionel Barrymore. He appeared with Lionel in "The Claw" and last year made a big hit in the winter production of "The Hatbox," by Eugene O'Neill. He is now touring in that play.

PRIZE STORY ON SCREEN.
WHEN Edward J. O'Brien selected "China Chisnahan" as the prize story of the list of honor stories published in 1917, he must have had the remarkable picture possibilities of the Daniel Wilbur Steele plot in mind.

For the rugged New England shores, the atmosphere of mystery, the picturesque characters and the tremendous suspense-climax that caused the tale to stand out as unique all are being transferred to the screen with rare fidelity in the production being filmed by Tom Forman as a special picture.

PARSON TESTED PLANE BEFORE FATAL FLIGHT

Justand, Vt., Sept. 8.—The body of Lieutenant Edwin W. Maynard, noted aviator, who was killed with two companions, Lieutenant L. R. Wood of Tomsboro, N. Y., and Mechanician Charles Monette of Flatbush, N. Y., when their plane crashed in New York yesterday, was found today for Maynard, N. C.

Preparations had been made for forwarding the body of Lieutenant Wood and Mechanician Monette to their homes.
An examination of the wrecked machine threw little light on the cause of the accident. The three aviators had been engaged in flights all the week from the fair grounds here.

Before leaving the ground early in the afternoon, Lieutenant Maynard's plane was carefully to see that his plane was in good working order. He had put in through several stunts when suddenly it was seen to drop a few hundred feet. It was attempting a tail spin. That the experienced aviator was in trouble was quickly realized by the thousands of spectators as the plane went into a nose dive and crashed to the ground.

Joseph Hergenhahn's best stories, is to be produced as a Paramount picture by George Melford. Mr. Hergenhahn was author of "Palah David," in which, third and Bartholomew scored a success. It is largely a new story. The third, in recent months, he having lately produced "Mystery of the Lady Letty" and Robert Louis Stevenson's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." The production will be made in the East, the exterior at Salem, Mass., and other locations and the interiors at the Paramount studio at Long Island City. Mr. Melford will take his entire production unit to New York. Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan and Raymond Hatton are among the players who will be featured.

JESSE GUILFORD'S RAGGED GOLF COSTS HIM CHAMPIONSHIP

IF YOU like to swim get in the swim! Send in your favorite bathing picture. A prize awaits you. Today's Sea Beauty is Miss Aurora B. Farant of No. 201 Walnut St., Manchester, N. H. Send your entries to the Sea Beauty Editor, Boston American. Snapshots must be accompanied by negatives.

GUILFORD'S RAGGED GOLF COSTS HIM HIS CROWN AT THE BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB PLAY—BOWING TO SWEETER OF NEW YORK! The photo shows the defending champion and Sweetener on the home green. The finished match found the local boy beaten, 4 and 3. One of the largest and most colorful galleries of the season attended the affair, which took on the brilliance of a social gathering. Guilford's putting was poor, and this was responsible for most of his troubles in the first nine holes of the afternoon. The other Jess didn't play much better golf on the way out and the tenth tee found them both even. The fact that they were both out in 40 shows the kind of golf they were playing. Guilford's hooking and slicing, coupled with his lack of customary putting touch, ended his chances. Knappier (in left circle) put Tolley, the Englishman, out of the running 2 up. Guilford is shown in right circle.

PARIS STEALS AN IDEA from the Balkans! There are two features of this dainty afternoon frock—the Slavic spirit of the garment and its long sleeves. It is fashioned of silk crepe, with a cute vest of flowered silk. The model, from Maison Redfern, is exclusive to the Boston American. The type of sleeve shown above, by the way, is quite the thing in the French capital. Boston women approve of it.

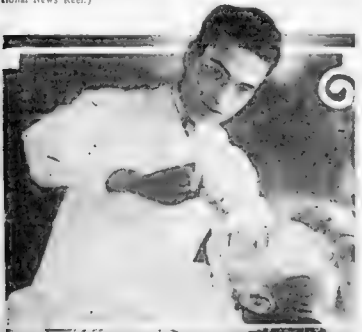

LURED BY THE JUMPING TIT TYPE! Miss Peggy Browne of Washington, D. C., who has a host of society friends in Boston, has deserted pink tea for the movies. Comes from one of the South's oldest families. (International News Reel.)

WILSON AND HIS "WHITE HORSE" DASH WILD! About the Town in Speaking Drive! "White Horse" liquor played an important part in the official life of Harold D. Wilson, Republican candidate for the nomination of attorney general, and now he has of "White Horse" with him again. The sturdy wooden beast, mounted on an automobile truck, wears glasses at the rally crowd, as the former prohibition chief harangues them. Wilson's unusual campaign methods are not exciting his rivals one-half as much as the strength he has shown in the Boston American's straw ballot. The above photo shows Wilson speaking to a gathering on Tremont Row.

SALEM POLICE EXTEND SEARCH FOR "DEATH AUTO" THAT KILLED Boy of 13; "Danvers" or "Danvers" on the registration plate of the car is the only clue the authorities have to the machine that ran down and killed Alfred Liberge (near), on Highland Avenue Salem.

THIS LITTEE SHAVER CHALLENGES BOSTON Barber to a Duel! That is, he is ready to defend his title as the champion razor wielder of Boston. His latest stunt is winning a bet by giving a man a hair cut, shave, shampoo and massage in 14 minutes. He pays his poll tax as Samuel R. Spatola and he works at No. 1442 Tremont street, Boston.

THE CALL OF THE WILD! Hans A. Kudlich, commander of the Massachusetts Boy Scouts' camp at Lakerville, is calling his young charges to show. Official inspection proved that the camp was in excellent shape.

"MISS BOSTON" IS PRESENTED WITH KEY TO Atlantic City! Beauty experts at the pagan city are agreed that Miss Charlotte Trowbridge, picked as the Boston American's Most Charming Girl, will bring away at least one of the big prizes. This photo shows her just after she had examined the float on which she is to ride in the pageant.

MEMBERS OF THE COLLINS FAMILY in procession. Young O'Driscoll, nephew of the dead father. Sister Celestine, sister of Michael Collins; Mrs. O'Driscoll and Miss Collins, other sisters; Mrs. Collins, sister in law, Shon Hales, and brother, Sean Collins.

SISTER OF ROGER CASEMENT lays wreath on grave of Collins! Photograph shows Mrs. Newman, whose brother was hanged in London, paying honor to the memory of the Free State leader.

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND PERSONS PAY HOMAGE AS FUNERAL procession of Michael Collins passes! Photograph just received shows the streets of Dublin. As the body of the Irish Free State leader was borne past, great crowds lining both sides of the route, stood bareheaded. The tribute was one of the greatest, as was the procession in the ancient Irish city. (Three Collins pictures by International News Reel Photo.)

BELL WILL CASE HAS NEW ASPIRANTS

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—Continued over the estate of the late Teresa Bell, widow of a San Francisco millionaire, who will not out her five hundred and fifty thousand dollars, was further complicated by the filing of an application by a local firm of attorneys to be named in the court for two purported cousins of Mrs. Bell.

The new figures in the will case are named as H. I. Irving McCar and his sister Mrs. Ada Westman, both of Michigan. Proof that they legally are cousins was furnished by the two under provisions of the will to share in the estate estimated at close to $1,000,000.

Mrs. Bell, in a peculiar will, left $1 to each of the live Bell children, asserting they were not her offspring, and bequeathed the bulk of her estate to any cousin who might be found, or, failing that, to the State of California.

The attorneys announced they would seek to uphold the will and to produce a new family history showing that Mrs. Bell was a child of Mrs. Sarah Wilcox Gleason Austin, sister of the mother of the late claimants.

According to the story made public in connection with the appearance of the new claimants, Mrs. Austin was a small child, Teresa Bell, was a small child, Teresa Bell, was a small child, Teresa Bell, was a small child.

The Michigan claimants have told the attorneys they believe there are certain cousins, whose whereabouts is not known.

FIRE AT AUTO HE BELIEVED MILLERAND'S

Park Sept. 8 (By the Associated Press).—George Salem, an automobile student, fired a shot at an automobile in front of the palace of the President today, believing the car was President Millerand's. The shot was wild.

Carrying a small brown sack, Salem came to the Elisee and was seen by the guard who questioned him that he had a letter for the President.

Noting a somewhat dazed look on the man's face, the guard stopped him. He was mentally unbalanced and took the letter promising to deliver it to the President personally.

All this the youth suddenly quitted if the President's car had left the place, he expressed not knowing that M. Millerand was in the building.

BOSCH'S EVANS SEEMS BENT ON WINNING

OSMET BOOS MET TITTLE GOES PLAYS

The day was replete with sensational golf, interspersed with some very ordinary play, but when the scores had cleared away it was found that of the four survivors for today's semifinal three are youths not over twenty years of age, while the fourth, Charles Evans, Jr., is still a young man.

It was to be expected that the contestants would awaken up on the terrific pace they had been setting, and for that reason probably the scoring was not so good. It is a thing to do across in the low seventies at Brookline and quite another to continue to do them.

In not one of the four matches was the scoring as low as it has been on the previous days, and the four terminated on the fifteenth green.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the day was the defeat of the champion by Jesse Sweetser. Strangely, too, that Gullford, a great man on the greens, should lose his match because he could not play accurately. His game was not a Gullford game at all, and that comes near telling the whole story, for Sweetser is too fine a player to succumb to ordinary golf.

Earlier in the day it was seen that the Sweet Gin was not in a happy setting mood for nothing seemed to go right. Sharp puts skinned peat in hole in a most unusual manner and very few dropped out of sight. He did have a two hole lead playing the fifteenth hole in the morning but once again he missed a short putt for the half and thus lost the sixteenth and eighteenth holes to birdies to become one down. Sweetser was never lead.

After Missing Two Foot Putt He Had Little Chance to Win. Gullford missed a two foot putt for the half hole in the afternoon. He was down from ten on to had little more to go through. The day's leader will have to wait for the important part of being a winner with a few holes left to be played and the Green was chosen as a champion.

He won the match with a par four hole in ten for the first time in the day and then he was a few feet away to win. He shot a par five hole in ten for the first time in the day and then he was a few feet away to win. He shot a par five hole in ten for the first time in the day and then he was a few feet away to win.

On Tenth Billy Drops a Long Putt for a Three. The tenth Billy drops a long putt for a three which gave him a lead when he had scored twenty-two above the cup on the eleventh hole and Bobby was on in five to a hole like a squared match. McNeil needed only to go down in two to win.

INJUNCTION TO SAFEGUARD HAT STYLE ISSUED

Truly Warner Hats to Court Here to Restore Competitors.

I want you to judge for yourself today the style value of the hat that Judge Webb of the Superior Court protects by injunction until I put it on my Five Foot Style Shelf.

The roll of the brim is the Style Feature of the now famous $100.00 model.

The old floppy, flimsy soft style brim that the college boys used to turn down and bend up, and twist into all kinds of shapes a couple of years ago, is as dead as last year's Almanac.

That's why I introduced this Season a new Style Combination with a crown that is soft and full, and a brim that is firm enough to get hold of, and stiff enough to hold the style that I whittled into the flange.

As a matter of fact this new flange produces a brim on a soft hat that resembles the D'Orsey Derby "curl" that up to date has only been used on a stiff hat.

Of course, as usual I have the staple shapes in all the September shades that anybody else has, but, thanks to Judge Webb, I've something that nobody else has.

I think the Judge is some Judge of Style and that's why I named this hat The Styl-Judge.

PAID FOR RELEGED THREE TIMES IN MONTH

In a little tailor shop at No. 8 Church street, Everett, there is a man who will swear to the famous truth propounded by Douglas and P. T. Barnum. He is William Sykes, proprietor of the shop, and he has been fleeced three times in a month.

A few weeks ago a young man walked into the place and ordered a suit. He tendered a check, on a Boston bank for deposit. It was a $15 check, and the traveling tailor gave him $10 change. The check proved worthless and the boy went back and gave him the $5. The young man, who gave him the name as Wendell W. Hunt of Cottage street, Everett.

Another young man walked in and ordered a suit. He also offered a check, Sykes was skeptical this time and said, "The man I did that for is still missing." However the man gave him the $5 in cash. The man gave him the name as Earl Norvell of Devon street, Everett, convinced the proprietor one by telling about his "job" in a Boston luncheon yard that yielded a check every week by mentioning the names of several men well known to Sykes. So he took the check and gave him the change. Two dollars more gone and another victim for the Everett police.

Several weeks ago another man entered the store and ordered a suit to lunch. His little son, Johnnie, was in the shop. The man gave him the name as John J. Williams of Devon street, Everett, convinced the proprietor one by telling about his "job" in a Boston luncheon yard that yielded a check every week by mentioning the names of several men well known to Sykes. So he took the check and gave him the change. Two dollars more gone and another victim for the Everett police.

The police believe that the bad check men are members of the same gang. They are active in the Everett territory and are responsible for the loss of many checks. The police are looking for them.

THREE CUT BY GLASS IN AUTO MISHAP. Three men were cut by glass when two automobiles collided at Boylston and Amory streets, Jamaica Plain, today. The cars, which were badly smashed, were owned by John W. Griffin, No. 84 Dakota street, Dorchester, and John J. Williams, No. 17-19 Telegraph street, South Boston.

The accident occurred at about 10:30 a.m. The cars were traveling in opposite directions. The driver of the car owned by John W. Griffin was injured. The driver of the car owned by John J. Williams was injured. The passengers were also injured.

BEAT MAN, FLEE WITH $50,000 IN JEWELRY. Chicago, Sept. 8.—Adolph Jewelers, who sold to a New York Jeweler, was assaulted by three men who took a restaurant on Sheridan road and robbed of jewelry valued at $50,000, according to reports to the police. The handkerchiefs escaped in an automobile.

Whipple or Gaston?

Gaston Cannot Beat Lodge, and If He Did He Would Only Revive Lodge-ism. Whipple Can Defeat Lodge, and If He Does He Will Bury Lodge-ism

The people of Massachusetts next Tuesday have one of the most important duties that come on election time to perform. It is the selection of a candidate for the United States Senate. Senator Lodge and Mr. Joseph Walker are contesting for the Republican nomination. With neither of these candidates have we any interest. We have disagreed with Mr. Lodge on nearly every domestic question that has already arisen, and the principles of Mr. Lodge and this newspaper are so radically different that we shall probably continue to disagree with Mr. Lodge, if he should be elected, on future questions of policy.

But we have an interest, however, in the contest for the Democratic nomination for Senator, for in that nomination there is hope. If the Democrats have the sense to select for their candidate a man whose political principles are diametrically opposed to those of Mr. Lodge and whose character and past political record give reason to believe he will stick to those principles if elected, then there is hope that Mr. Lodge can be defeated.

The two chief contestants are William A. Gaston and Sherman L. Whipple. Against Mr. Gaston's character we have nothing to say. We believe that he is an honest man, that he keeps his word and that he believes in the things he says he believes in and that the things he opposes are the things that he does not believe in. But this is decidedly not enough to qualify him to be the opponent of a man like Senator Lodge. Mr. Gaston differs from Senator Lodge in nothing that is really fundamental, nor will those fundamentally opposed to the things Mr. Lodge stands for, support Mr. Gaston, for they know that they will not be thus defeating Lodge-ism but will be transferring the same flag to another ship, a little younger and a little less battered and barnacled.

They know that the election of Mr. Gaston means the resuscitation of Lodge-ism rather than its quietus. Mr. Gaston says the "interests" do not control him. We believe that he speaks the truth. But the interests do not need to control him. He himself is of the interests. He is part and parcel, bag and baggage, of the interests.

To those who don't care what a man stands for but only want to know whether he can win, we wish to say that the man whom the Lodge forces are praying to have nominated next Tuesday is Mr. Gaston, not because Mr. Gaston is in collusion with the Lodge forces, but because the Lodge forces know his weakness as the representative of Lodge-ism, equally with Mr. Lodge, and they know therefore that those who won't have Lodge-ism won't have Gaston. Moreover, in the improbable event of Mr. Lodge being defeated or becoming incapacitated before election, they would still have in Mr. Gaston one of their own.

Mr. Gaston stands unfortunately in this unhappy predicament—the liberal forces of the people of the State will not vote for Mr. Gaston and the reactionary forces, of which he is a part, would prefer him to Mr. Whipple, yet they prefer Mr. Lodge to either of them because Mr. Lodge does not differ from Mr. Gaston, yet he is a more experienced man, a better debater, and possesses a more profound knowledge of affairs and is therefore a better exponent of standpatism.

Those whose only interest is in the possibility of a candidate's success want to remember the history of Gaston's misfortunes in the Democratic party. The year before he first became the Democratic candidate for Governor the Democratic party adopted as its party policy the Initiative and Referendum and the public ownership and operation of the railroads and street railways. The next year Mr. Gaston got himself nominated for Governor before he let the Democratic delegates know what his political principles were, and then proceeded to throw out the Initiative and Referendum and the public ownership planks after he had put himself in the position to dictate the platform. At the following election he was defeated by an overwhelming plurality by John L. Bates. Now the significant thing is not that Mr. Gaston was badly beaten but that the Socialist vote that year, which had never been more than two or three thousand in this State, rose to nearly 40,000. These were not Socialists. They were members of the Democratic party who would not stand for Mr. Gaston's candidacy and would not vote for Mr. Bates. The next year he tried it again with the same disastrous result. The third year, the Democrats wearily nominated William L. Douglas of Brockton and then they proceeded to show that Mr. Gaston was defeated by his own political weakness rather than by the political strength of Mr. Bates, for Douglas defeated Bates by as large a plurality as that by which Bates had defeated Gaston.

Some years later Mr. Gaston took another flier into politics, this time as candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. This was only a year or two ago, but his political strength was so weak that Richard H. Long, who was then not dry from his baptism in the Democratic party, defeated him.

On the other hand, Sherman L. Whipple has, from the first moment that he attracted political notice to this hour, been a forward-looking, constructive, progressive Democrat. In the great Constitutional Convention, held so recently, his vote and voice were for every progressive measure that came to a vote in the convention. He fought for the Initiative and Referendum, long and ably, while Mr. Gaston, outside of the convention with the reactionary Lodge Republicans, was organizing and financing the campaign against it. If a man does not believe that the people ought to have the right to pass a law over the heads of a bad Legislature which refuses to pass it, and to veto a bad law which a bad Legislature has passed, and to change the constitution when a change in the times requires it, then surely such a man is not the kind of Democrat we want to represent us in the United States Senate.

Mr. Whipple not only stands for the most progressive kind of Democracy, but he is one of the few great lawyers of the country who have won distinction by almost invariably fighting the cause of the under dog. Since General Butler's day, we know of no such legal career as Sherman Whipple's in defence of the under dog.

Things Hard to Forget

By Winifred Black

"THE woman regained consciousness at the hospital and sent for her former husband."

They found her in her hotel room the other day unconscious and all her jewelry were gone and all her pretty clothes were gone, too, and she had sat at her desk writing letters of goodbye for hours and then she tore them all up and tried to go away from all the trouble and the anxiety without even a word to anyone. But the drug she took was not strong enough, and they found her before it was too late. And the first thing she did when she came to herself was to speak the name of the man she divorced ten long years ago.

AN AGONIZING WORD

How bitter she was when she divorced him! She hated every one who wouldn't side with her in every little particular. She said the husband was heartless and cruel and stingy and jealous and exacting and mean-spirited. Oh, there was hardly a thing she didn't find to say! And now, when every one else has deserted her, this man she abused with such a torrent of words has gone to her bedside to try to help her find her way back to life and hope and some semblance of happiness again.

"Her former husband" I wonder how often the woman who has a "former husband" wishes there was no such word as "former."

I met a woman the other day in a cafe at a smart hotel and she was exquisitely dressed and beautifully groomed, and we sat down and had a bit of luncheon together and while we sat there her new husband came into the room and she introduced him, and we had a bit of a chat.

TEARS IN HER EYES

Agreeable enough he was, too, well-groomed, not back-biting, in a sort of over-perseverance, ever-does, over-extravagant way, a bit too much flesh, perhaps, a trifle too high a color maybe, and just a bit of arrogance and intolerance in his voice—but, still, nothing particularly wrong with him. And when the present husband

Dust and Disease

Editor Boston American: Morning, about eight, I walk from Park street through Temple place sometimes via Winter street and I have noticed a nuisance being tolerated by respectable people on their way to work. Many are not aware of the unsanitary and common practice which should in justice be stopped permanently: shaking dust-mats and dusters from out windows, facing streets, of office and other buildings.

This unclean practice is not confined to one district, but is carried on elsewhere, even in the suburbs. I have observed women shaking rags from out windows where people are obliged to pass below. Tenants living in the lower apartments are perhaps the most humiliated by the dirt and dust blowing into their rooms or adhering to the window-screens.

Foreign substance getting into the eyes is another dangerous feature caused by this careless practice. More than once I have had this uncomfortable experience and I believe others have unfortunately endured the same. This disgusting and unwholesome method of permitting the atmosphere with dirt and disease to be blown into the eyes of the people by everyone co-operating for the general benefit of all.

Short Skirts

Editor Boston American: Why is it that when the subject for dress improvement or reform is brought before the public—somebody—doctors included, will discuss the subject as Dr. Colquhoun did in your last Saturday's paper? I have not yet seen one person advocate "the long dress," that drugs on the ground" as Dr. Colquhoun spoke of—certainly no sensible woman would—but the ankle length skirt room, and she knew I was thinking of him, too, though I tried to put the thought out of my mind.

And I was sorry, for I knew that she was thinking of the man of heart, and she knew I was thinking of him, too, though I tried to put the thought out of my mind.

modest and surely can in no way be considered a germ carrier.

The very narrow skirt that has been in fashion for some years is not only unsightly but a great hindrance to a woman in case of accident and when stepping on a car. There should be no objection to a skirt moderately wide—provided it is not extreme.

Answering Mr. Doyle

Editor Boston American:

In answer to Mr. Doyle's letter in your paper, he says Ireland doesn't want Dr. Valera. Towards don't want him, and he has no love for them. The Valera stands for right. He is a champion of truth and a champion of God. Expediency has in it no truth and is marked more by cowardice than prudence. Collins was the murderer of the Irishmen like Harry Boland, for being loyal to the Irish Republic.

Did Mr. Doyle stop and think of the treason committed by Collins against her whom Emmet, Parnell, Connolly, MacSwiney, Brugha and Boland loved with a love sealed with their life's blood? THOMAS SCULLY, East Cambridge.

Free in a Year

Editor Boston American: In reading your valuable paper of September 1 I find a letter signed D. T. O'Reilly. I would like to ask the gentleman who gave him the power of speaking for $6 per cent of the Irish people.

I have just returned from Ireland and I found just the opposite. The majority of Free Staters there are in the same position as the Irish people. Ireland will never function. Ireland will be united and free in what state of mind we are in now. M. J. T. STANLEY, L. R. A.

They were young together, fought a battle against poverty together, and they stood together beside a narrow grave, how can she forget these things? Does a woman ever really forget youth? Youth, faith, hope—what a trio to sit down at the humblest table in the humblest home! If you don't have anything in the world ever makes up for it when the door is locked against them.

ARE YOU TARDY AT THE TABLE?

"If there is one woman I am sorry for it is the wife who spends half her day and some times into the evening, waiting for the family to come to meal. It is a funny thing, but 50 per cent, possibly, of those who do not get their own meals served never ready when the meal is served."

Some men will come home "starving," they say, and rush to the kitchen till she does not know what to do. They are so frantic efforts to make the coffee hot or the gas burn when the man's away, and then, when all is hot and on the table—

"What happens? Why, mind the band has to go and wash the hands, or find his house coat and some equally necessary thing when he should have attended to such matters before he started."

Children, always hungry, as soon as the bell is rung for dinner, or any other meal, will say, "Oh, wait a minute, I want to see up one more word, or go down a figure." If anything is so it is so easy to drive everything else before you, but it is pretty safe bet that the man drivers are the ones who make the other follow wait.

To Live 100 Years

Not Difficult. Start Now

Copyright, 1922, New York

An old gentleman in Freeport, Ill., celebrating his one hundredth birthday, says anybody could equal his age record, as follows:

"Don't burn the candle at both ends, banish worry, eat plain food, get plenty of sleep."

This old gentleman, by the way, has smoked tobacco for eighty-eight years, but does not attribute his long life to tobacco.

The fact is, that anybody, if he could really "banish worry," which kills a majority of prosperous people, as well as many of the poor, could live to a hundred. The normal life of man is at least one hundred and forty-four years, and living to one hundred would be easy enough if men would begin early. Cornaro did it, starting after forty, when he was given up to die, as a result of foolish excesses.

He was past ninety when he wrote his last book, and rode horseback daily, mounting unaided.

The majority of us begin trying to live long when it is too late. Save your heart, nerves and lungs early, and you will be working at one hundred, not merely reminiscing.

SEEN AND HEARD

THE anti-Jew prejudice recalls a story that is told on DANIEL G. WING, president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

Wing wrote to a White Mountain hotel for a breakfast and signed himself, "D. Wing." Letter came back, "Sorry, but we do not cater to Chinese trade."

"This one ought to stir your civic pride enough to get you to the polls next Tuesday. There are five candidates for Alderman in Lynn, one to be elected. After election, a derogatory complaint came the choice of the voters to the then Mayor Walter H. Cressmer. He admitted he had not voted. 'I know of one far better citizen than you,' said the Mayor. 'It would vote to the polls, if he didn't vote for the damned one of them' across the ballot, dropped the ballot in the box and walked out."

On a train bound for Worcester the Sunday before Labor Day, in the smoker, one individual rather chatty than you, said to the bottle. He left it upon the seat when he went towards the front of the car and it slipped in a mysterious way and poured its contents on the floor. A man nearby accidentally dropped a lighted match into it. HULTMAN WARMS PUBLIC

Intelligent Coal Purchasing Will Prevent Profiteering, Fuel Head Says

In a proclamation issued today Fuel Administrator Eugene C. Hultman warned the public that only by intelligent purchasing can gross profiteering in coal be prevented.

He urged that the householder make use of fuel other than anthracite, at least in part, so as not to be entirely dependent upon the dealer in this fuel.

"We shall not freeze this winter," said Hultman. "The problem we have to face is how to protect ourselves from exploitation by selfish interests who will try to convert a public clamor for coal at any price. A fuel shortage panic can be created if the people do not use their only effective weapon of defense, which is intelligence in making their purchases and in their use of fuel. The shortage in anthracite coal can not be made up this year, Hultman said, and the public will be obliged to use in part some other variety of fuel.

TAKE COAL FIGHT INTO COURTS

The coal crisis made its first appearance in Boston courts today when Patterson & Wyde, agents of a British steamship company, filed stipulation to prevent the disposition of 7,000 tons of British coal ordered by the Union Steel Products Company of New York.

An injunction has been sought by the New York concern against the agents of the St. Dunan, the steamship bringing the coal from England, England, to the United States since the discovery that the coal had been diverted from New York to Boston. The Union Steel Company declared it had purchased the coal at $2.20 per ton delivered and feared the agents would sell it in Boston for a higher price.

DORA BLISS

ACTRESS SEEKS CONTROL OF CHILD

A spirited hearing in secret before Michael J. Doyle, appointed a master by Judge Henderson, featured the fight today in Superior Court between James J. Cannon, Huntington Avenue, and Miss Dora Bliss, an actress, for the custody of their five-year-old daughter, Arline.

Cannon, accompanied a petition filed by counsel for Miss Bliss for an increase in the amount paid by Cannon for the child's support, sought to have custody of the child, already granted to Miss Bliss, transferred to him.

The marriage of Cannon and Miss Bliss, which took place in 1914, was annulled in June, 1915, when it was learned that Cannon's divorce decree from his first wife had not been decreed absolute.

Miss Bliss, known on the stage as Dora Bliss, declared tenderly to Judge Henderson that Cannon had not contributed "10 cents" to the

JEWELERS GUILTY IN RING CASE

The ring was sold them by Max W. Swann, seventeen years old, of Lockwood, Mass., who was arrested for the larceny of the ring and three others, one owned by Mrs. True Perkins, a Maine woman. His case was disposed of in the Juvenile Court.

EVANS AND SWEET LEAD IN GOLF

Chick 6 Up on Knepper and Sweetner 5 Up on Jones at 18 Holes in Golf

By NICK FLETCHER

Courtesy Club, Brookline, Sept. 8.—Chick Evans and Jess Sweetner built very good foundations this morning for a place in the finals of the morrow by establishing hefty leads over their redoubtable opponents.

Chick came home six up on Rudy Knepper while the New Yorker had Bobby Jones five down, a situation the little Southerner has seldom been in.

Sweetner, the conqueror of Quillford played sensational golf from the time he tucked away an eagle two at the second hole until the end of the round. He made the putt in 40 which kept him the best figure for the course, had all the putts been dropped.

Jones was a bit off his game on the first nine going out to 10 which was a very bad thing for him. He was six down at the turn and though he breezed home in 14 he could only pick up one hole, the 17th where the flying New Yorker took a five.

EVANS LIKE A MACHINE

Evans was playing like a golf machine, straight down the middle at the time, striking mastery approaches around at the time. Knepper fought as in his wont, but he was up against too much stuff. Nothing but a bad Evans reversal will give Rudy any chance to swing clubs tomorrow.

Both had poor drives off the first

Both had poor drives off the first tee, Sweetner being in the rough to the right while Jones was on the left. Bobby recovered well, almost reaching the green with an iron while Sweetner was 25 yards behind him with a wooden club. Both were in in three and when Bobby missed a putt the hole was halved in five.

THE THIRD AND FOURTH WERE HALVED IN FOUR

Both had the current fraction of an inch. Bobby missed a putt on the fifth green which cost him that hole and he missed a two down. On the sixth green which cost him that hole and he missed a two down. On the eighth green the hole was halved in five.

SWETNER IN HARD LUCK

Sweetner was about thirty feet from the green when he drove off a forty-five foot putt. He missed a putt on the ninth hole and Bobby missed a putt on the tenth hole. Sweetner's second landed almost in the hole but he missed it. Bobby's chip tricked down the hill and he took the green after a putt from the pin. Sweetner missed one shot and lost the match.

GIRL'S WIRE CLEW IN MAN'S DEATH

WARD IS HELD IN SLAYING

Seattle, Sept. 8.—The mystery of the killing of Ferdinand Hochbrun in which a former ward and maid, Clara Skarin Winborn, is held, centered today in a telegram authorities say the young woman sent to a man in Kalamazoo, two days after the date they set as the time Hochbrun was shot.

The telegram was addressed to Raymond E. Heron, said to be a telegraph operator with two children. His wife is dead. It was dated October 15, 1921, and said in part:

"Mark here. Everything practically settled. No more saving a half case of chocolate for tomorrow's lunch. This is the first of my money to be used. X X X Buy Maxine a new toy and yourself a drink. Am going to order a car here. X X X Love."

"BETTY."

On the original the sender's name was marked Betty Winborn. Mr.

Hochbrun, retired and living in an apartment here, his only occupation the collection of revenues from his widespread realty holdings, was found dead in an above last winter, two months after his supposed departure on a trip for his health.

About the same time his agents received letters instructing them to forward his rentals to various Pacific Coast points. These letters caused a search which resulted in Clara Skarin Winborn's arrest in Oakland last week.

The name Mark in the telegram was said to mean Markham, a man whom the police are seeking to place out a solution of the mystery of Hochbrun's death. The girl in the case is said to have taken her last name from a Michigan barber who went with before his death.

The 'Big Four' in Golt Title Play at Brookline Country Club

JESSE SWEETSER

BOBBY JONES

The Chicago party won another at the fourth, when he dropped a fine fifteen footer, after both had reached with their second. Knepfer's long one was true as a die, but faded away just as it seemed ready to fly.

Evans pulled out his spoon for his second at the fifth, hitting against the wind. He whaled a low ball that carried the traps and chipped to within five inches of the pin in three and both were down in four for a half. There are those who consider Jones' last nine holes the greatest he ever played and an indication that possibly he might reverse the order of things this afternoon. Cards for the last nine holes of the morning round:

CHICK EVANS

EVANS LEADS AT 18TH HOLE

Knepfer putted up nine inches from the cup, but Sweetser sank his for a four, winning the hole. Cards of the first nine, Sweetser six up:

Sweetser 5 2 4 4 5 3 3 4—34
Jones 5 2 4 4 5 4 4 5—34

Evans didn't drop a hole on the way out until the ninth, when Knepfer's mauler iron carried dead to the pin, tricked down the green and rounded the cup. It was a couple of feet by, and Chick conceded the three after he had failed to reach because of a hooked iron shot, and a shy mauler nitch.

The pair of them hit five tee shots at the first and it looked like Knepfer's hole, when his iron second carried the trap and race track, and "Chick with a lie that wasn't any too good, scuffed his shot and brought up in the track to the right.

But he chipped a perfect one on and dribbled just two feet past the hole. Rudy was strong with his approach and left himself a seven footer, which he just failed to tuck away.

Evans was nicely on with his mauler on the second, while Knepfer, playing from the rough at the edge of a trap, hit the green and sent over, coming to rest on the ball leading up to the lawn. He punched a beauty back on the green, and missed dropping his three by a very fortunate evasion.

BEAUTIFUL IRON SHOT.
Evans was five yards away and put the ball dead to the pin for a half that must have disappointed him as he seemed to have the argument all sewed up.

Chick whaled a beautiful iron ball carrying fifteen feet past the pin. Knepfer was short with his iron, but chipped up neatly and dropped a five footer for a half, as Evans' fine long attempt just blanked any of the pocket.

while Sweetser seemed a trifle strong if anything. Sweetser approached, putted to within five feet, then proceeded to miss a putt while Jones missed again and Bobby, who was down in four, won his first hole of the match.

Both drove finely from the 11th tee and Sweetser's second was on the green while Jones was on the bank just ahead of the race track. Jones chipped to within five inches of the pin in three and both were down in four for a half. There are those who consider Jones' last nine holes the greatest he ever played and an indication that possibly he might reverse the order of things this afternoon. Cards for the last nine holes of the morning round:

RUDY'S FINE PUTT.

A perfect mauler left Chick with an eight-footer for a three on the sixth, while Knepfer's second was strong and off to the left. Rudy unfurled a beautiful putt, some thirty feet, hit the back of the bucket and hopped off. Chick missed his, being an inch or two shy, and they divided the hole.

They played very conventional golf at the eighth.

Then Knepfer stepped into the picture, with his sensational hole, as heretofore related. Their cards out:

Evans 4 4 4 4 3 4 5—35
Knepfer 5 4 4 4 5 3 4—36

Coming back both Sweetser and Jones played truly remarkable golf. Both made the tenth green in two, Sweetser barely missing a downhill putt for a three. The hole was halved in four. Jones placed his second shot on the long eleventh, while Sweetser was in the rough to the right and at the foot of the hill. Sweetser recovered promptly and took but one putt for a four and a half.

REAL SPORTSMANSHIP.
Sweetser displayed real sportsmanship on the short 12th when he conceded a putt to Jones after he had missed his putt. Sweetser's tee shot wasn't on and his second a yard short. Jones was on and missed his putt for a two but the concession made it a half. Sweetser's second to the 12th hole was high and about 15 feet from the pin, while Jones was barely on. Sweetser took two putts and Bobby the like.

Both had nice drives to the 14th and were on in two. Jones missed a 16-foot putt by inches while Sweetser hit the back of the cup from 45 feet. They halved in four. Sweetser pushed his mauler shot a trifle to the 15th green. Jones chipped to within 4 feet of the pin and Sweetser laid almost a stymie. Bobby sank his second for a four.

BOTH DRIVE SHORT.
Both drove the short 16th green with Sweetser slightly away. The drive was so close that the ball was a string to measure the very edge of the hole. Evans chipped a putt, wide of the cup and Jones barely missed a two. They halved the three.

Sweetser poked on the 17th tee with two fours for a 44 and whaled out a five drive while Jones hooked in the rough on the left. Bobby played a splendid recovery to the hole.

At the next hole they were on with two dandy approaches, both about twenty feet past the pin. Knepfer was short with his putt, and hit himself a five-footer which he had to drop as Evans was slony, he dropped it.

Chick's iron to the home hole was one of the finest shots of the day, hitting the green and stopping hole high eight feet away. Knepfer was short and landed on the race track. He nibbled out to the far edge of the green and rimmed the cup with a prodigious putt, which would have given him a half as Evans didn't sink his little one.

Their cards in:

Evans 5 2 5 4 4 3 4 4—34
Knepfer 5 2 4 7 3 4 4—36

EVANS 6 UP AT HALF.

Chick Evans continued to play fine golf on the inward half of the morning round and came in for the groceries, 6 up, on Rudy Knepfer. The pair of them were on the tenth green with fine approaches and Evans dropped in a nine-footer for a birdie after Knepfer had failed on one slightly longer.

A missed putt robbed Evans of another win on the long eleventh. He was just short of the green with a fine braided second, chipped up and left himself a baby put, which he failed to drop. Knepfer's second was short and his third just over the green. He laid it up and grabbed a half for himself.

Chick hoisted a splendid mauler in within three feet of the moment on the short twelfth and rolled it in for another birdie win. Knepfer was also on with his tee shot, but left himself too long a putt. Evans pushed his second shot into a trap on the thirteenth, was out with his third, stopping half a dozen feet from the pin. Knepfer's tee shot brought up in the rough, but he played a fine out and hit the green ball to the right of the green and missed his second shot.

He failed to drop it, however, lost out.

Evans was away on the fifteenth and played a mauler that just carried the trap guarding the green. Knepfer was well over to the left and had to shoot through the trees to reach the green. He hit a splendid high shot that clipped off a few leaves and wound up on the very edge of the hole. Evans chipped to within two feet of the hole, while Knepfer's approach was a fine chip.

He missed coming back, but halting directly in front of Chick's. It was too close for a stymie and the hole went the way of Chicago.

OBJECTING TO COX NAMING EDWARDS

Strenuous objection to the appointment of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards as commanding officer of the Massachusetts National Guard, is being made, it was learned today.

The opposition, headed by Adjutant-General Jesse F. Stevens, is said to have objected on the ground that the appointment would be a violation of National Guard regulations.

These regulations, issued by the War Department, prohibit an officer being commissioned a major-general when he is over sixty-two years of age, and General Edwards is about sixty-four years old.

The War Department might refuse to federalize General Edwards. Friends of the "Daddy of the Y. D." say the Governor, as commander-in-chief of the State forces, is empowered to make the appointment. They assert that Governor Cox has expressed his intention of standing back of the appointment of General Edwards.

Mrs. Storick is charged with having poisoned her first husband, Claude Storick, in 1919. She was arrested on a charge of poisoning her husband, Emory Storick. Relatives of Claude Storick caused an investigation and poison was found in the man's body. It was known that the couple had frequently quarreled, and Mrs. Storick's arrest followed.

CALM AMID STORM.

Cass County, Michigan, was thrown into excitement by the wife's arrest, but she did not arouse her compass. At first she declined to speak, but later as the evidence against her was given out, she answered the attack.

"I know who started all this trouble for me. Claude Storick's parents have tried to conquer my spirit for twenty years. They haven't conquered me yet."

She sprang from her chair in the cell where the interview took place and began nervously to pace the floor. Once she approached the barred door and beat upon it with clenched fist as she emphasized her remarks.

"Look at me," she said. "I am in jail, the mother of three children. Another may be born to me here and have the right of the world through the bars of this prison. That is a fine situation to be in."
